DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 3 is objected to because of the following informalities: in line 9, "in side" should be corrected as -- inside --. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Applicant should clarify the specific mounting of the coil density adjustment groove formed on the exterior of the coil in crosswise to a front-to-rear direction." The particular structure intended, as claimed, is unclear.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Togane et al. (US 5,138,290) in view of Milili IUS 5,121,028).

Togane et al. disclose a deflection yoke (figure 1) comprising:
a conical-shaped coil separator (6) mounted with a front cover the bonds

Art Unit: 2832

with a cathode-ray tube and a rear cover that bonds the neck portion on the opposite side (figure 1); a ferrite core (4) for forming a magnetic field on the external side of the separator; and vertical and horizontal deflection coils (5, 2) for forming a magnetic field together with the ferrite core.

Togane et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for a coil adjustment groove for the deflection yoke to increase coiling density.

Milili discloses an adjustment groove/hole formed on the coil, at a position approximately 1/2 the position of a longitudinal position of the electric field, for increasing the coil density (column 6, lines 51-65).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the adjustment design of Milili with the deflection yoke of Togane et al. for the purpose of reducing distortion.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 02-20-04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues:

[1]: There would have been no motivation for using the coil adjusting groove of Milili with the coil of Togane.

[2]: Milili does not disclose the groove being placed in the coil on its exterior surface compressing the windings inwardly.

Examiner disagrees:

Regarding [1]: In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, as acknowledged by applicant, Milili discloses tabs controlling the magnetic field produced. A skilled artisan would have been motivated to modify the coil of to use adjustment means for the magnetic field, as suggested by Milili.

Regarding [2]: Milili discloses the tabs 100' being placed on the exterior of the coil in a "cross-wise direction from the front to rear direction."

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
